

Universal Design for Learning: Creating Inclusive Learning Environments

Course Overview

$333

In this course, you will learn about the tools available to help create an inclusive learning environment that is both accessible and effective for all students. The course will introduce you to the three principles of UDL, which are multiple means of representation, multiple means of action and expression, and multiple means of engagement. You will learn how to apply these principles to your teaching practices, including how to design flexible and accessible curricula, assessments, and instructional materials.

Approximately one week before the course starts you will receive a confirmation email that provides additional course details.

Select sections of CEMN 155 course may be eligible for the future skills grant. Learn more about eligibility and how to apply for funding by visiting cnc.bc.ca/futureskills.
